

USED RIFLE TO INTIMIDATE RANCHER IN HURRY FOR DIVORCE

J. H. Scott Secured His Alleged Rights at Point of Gun.

Prescott, Ariz., Sept. 23.—Deputy Sheriff Merritt arrived here last night from Camp Verde, having in custody John H. Scott, charged with taking possession of a ranch which was in charge of Jack Wilson at the point of a Winchester rifle yesterday.

Scott is an old time resident of the valley, and heretofore has borne a good reputation. The trouble is the outgrowth of a quarrel over the deal for the purchase of Scott's ranch and horses of A. W. Cook.

It seems that Cook bargained with Scott for the purchase of the latter's ranch and horses for $10,000, on May 21. On that date, it is alleged, Cook paid Scott $1,000 as part of the purchase price, with the promise he would pay the balance of $9,000 on the first of the following month. When the second payment was due, Cook is said to have failed to meet the payment, although he had in the meantime made some improvements on the ranch, and it is said, sold thirty-two head of the horses bargained for in the deal.

Used His Rifle.
Cook refused to give possession of the place to Scott and the dispute was referred to a board of arbitration. The decision of the arbitrators was in effect that Scott should return the $1,000 payment made on the purchase price to Cook, in lieu of some improvements made on the place by the latter, and that Cook should give possession of the land and stock interests to Scott. Scott is alleged to have refused to pay back the $1,000 to Cook.

Wilson, who had been in Scott's employ before the deal was made, was in possession of the place for Cook. Scott is alleged to have ridden to the place on horseback, armed with a Winchester rifle, and to have taken forcible possession of the place from Wilson, ordering him from the premises, with the threat that if he refused to move, his head would be blown from his shoulders.

Appealed to Official But He Was Not in That Business.

About 10 o'clock this morning a woman poorly clad rushed into the office of a well known official and demanded of that gentleman that he issue her a decree of divorce at once. He informed the woman that the person she wanted to see was a lawyer. She replied to this statement that she had only been in town a short while, coming here from El Paso, and that she had not had an opportunity to locate a lawyer.

Poor Opinion of Laws.
The woman, who refused to give her name, then told the official just what she thought of a territory that would have laws of that kind, and turning on her heel, walked indignantly out of his office.

Before entering this office, she stopped a gentleman who was just entering the building, saying that she wanted a divorce, and asked him to direct her to the proper office. The man she accosted replied that he didn't have any divorces in his pocket at that time, but that probably the official could attend to the matter.

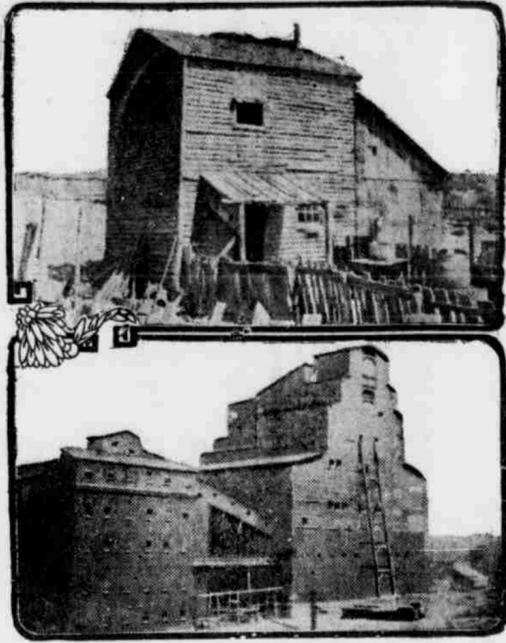

INJURED BY GAS TANK EXPLOSION

Artesia, N. M., Sept. 23.—While D. R. Scott was pumping air into a soda fountain tank at the Pecos Valley drug store, the tank exploded with tremendous force, damaging the building and seriously injuring Mr. Scott.

The tank opened on the side opposite Scott and to this fact alone probably owes his existence today. The floor was blown down and a large hole made in the side of the building. Scott received a scalp wound and several cuts and bruises, that will cause him to lay up for several days.

ABUSES OF CHILD LABOR IN MINES AND MILLS OF EAST

Little Girls of Tender Age Get $2 Per Week--8 Year Old Boy Sits in Steaming Bath All Day.

A Wilkes-Barre Coal Miner's Home. A Typical Coal Breaker at Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 23.—An official of the department of commerce and labor who has been investigating child labor, says:

"In this county, Luzerne, there are probably 5,000 children, boys and girls, under 14, working in coal breakers and silk and cotton mills. State laws afford no protection to small children here. And that county, I am assured, is a fair sample of many others of the state.

"I do not know what the federal commission will report to congress on this matter, but I do know that child labor is employed here on every hand, openly and notoriously, cruelly, inexorably.

"I have seen it for myself. At breakers and factories I have talked to foremen and children. Also I have talked to school teachers, priests, editors, labor leaders and state inspectors. All say the same. The practice is admitted. Nearly all deplore it. Only those defend it who profit by its dollars.

"I visited mines and mills at random. Boys to the breaker; girls to the silk mill.

"At the Wilkes-Barre silk mill at Georgetown I was refused admission. At the Empire mill, near by, I was admitted to part of the mill. These two employ about 700 girls. Many of them are little girls in short skirts.

Working Papers.
"They all have their working papers, affidavits sworn to by their parents, that they are of legal age. These perjured affidavits are plentiful.

"That takes the responsibility off of us," explained Foreman J. W.

The facts rise up and knock you down. Fifty thousand children in the mills and mines of this one state. Eight thousand children between the ages of 10 and 14 unable to read and write. Pennsylvania, second state industrially in the union, 20th state in the percent of its children who can read and write. And every year falling in the scale!

"The fact is that state law is nothing, perjury is established custom, courts are bought, ballot box juggled, the real power in the state is a power above the forms of law and government, the dollar power that owns the breaker and coins the children of the state into dollars with as little conscience as it bribes its legislature. Is that what congress wants to know? If so the facts may easily be had.

DON'T TIE YOUR WOOL WITH SISSAL TWINE

Eastern Buyers Discriminate in Price Because of the Character of the Binding.

The Boston Cotton and Wool Reporter, a high authority in the fleece markets of the world, gives a timely warning to wool growers and packers to be on their guard to the kind of twine to be used in tying fleeces for shipment to eastern markets. It says:

"The usual complaints are coming in from manufacturers as to the use of sisal twine in the tying of fleeces, and it is needless to say that consumers are discriminating against those clips in which this kind of twine is used. It would be greatly to the advantage of the growers, as well as consumers, if the former would use some other kind of twine in tying their fleeces. It is almost impossible to open up fleeces without leaving fragments of the twine in them, which break up and work all through the wools and come out in the form of specks in the finished goods, thus producing a considerable percentage of 'seconds' involving loss to the manufacturer. It would be well if local buyers in the wool growing sections would take this matter up and secure the use of other twine. Ordinary wool twine or glazed hemp twine is much preferable to sisal twine which, necessarily from its fluff nature, can hardly help working in through the wool, as stated."

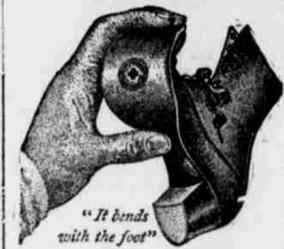

BITE BY PROXY WAS POISONOUS

Men, Ariz., Sept. 23.—It is not often that one is bitten by a rattlesnake in the same manner as L. B. Johnson and his son, Angus. They were recently out hunting and their bird dog was bitten on the tongue by a rattler. Mr. Johnson and Angus examined the bite and gave the dog remedies to counteract the poison, but was not aware of the snake bite, until some days later. He then understood that he was treating a rattlesnake bite "by proxy." This loss was occasioned by finding at a drug store a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills, the guaranteed cure for biliousness, malaria and jaundice, 25c.

ROOT'S VISIT TO DIAZ WILL BE MORE THAN SOCIAL CALL

Sort of Protectorate Over Central American Republics Will Be Result of Secretary's Trip.

Secretary Root, Ambassador Creel, President Diaz.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Although the official statement says that Secretary Root's coming visit to Mexico, beginning September 25, is purely social, the fact remains that the principal aim of the trip is the formation of a species of joint Mexico-United States protectorate to arbitrate differences among the Central American republics.

It is learned from Central American diplomats here that each of their countries will have representatives in the city of Mexico during Mr. Root's visit. Naturally, there will be meetings between these agents and Mr. Root and President Diaz and naturally peace and arbitration will be discussed.

The attitude of Secretary Root will be receptive; he will be there to hear suggestions and to indicate his opinions as to what the United States is willing to do in forwarding a diplomatic program.

President Diaz has long had the idea of a species of federation between the Central American republics which put an end to the petty rivalries and political wars which interfere with business and stop commercial development in those rich regions. A part of this plan is an arbitration board, consisting of Mexico and the United States. The point is new. Will the United States join and will we consent to a scheme to enforce the decrees of such an arbitration tribunal?

For Friendship's Sake.
Ambassador Creel, of Mexico, has made an official announcement, stating that the purpose of the trip of Mr. Root is to develop the friendship and good will and commercial intercourse between the United States and Mexico. However, Creel, who is a millionaire thirty times over, has devoted nearly all his time in Washington to his chief's pet project and if it carries the credit will be largely his.

Secretary Root goes to Mexico as that nation's guest. The invitation comes personally from President Diaz, and the latter will meet him at Mexico City, where he will be entertained in the famous palace Chapultepec.

With Secretary Root will be his son, Ethel, Jr., and Mrs. Root. The party will travel in a private car attached to a regular train as far as Laredo, Tex., where they will be met by a delegation of prominent citizens from Mexico and escorted to Mexico City. The trip through Mexico will be made in the private car of President Diaz, which, by the way, is said to be the most luxuriant private car ever constructed.

Barley, Bread and Beer

These three words are derived from the same Anglo Saxon root—broowan. All three are foods. Barley, a grain that makes both bread and beer. Bread, a solid food. Beer, a liquid food.

In making bread, flour and yeast are used; in making beer, barley-malt, hops and yeast are used. The same principle is in each—both are wholesome foods.

In Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer the Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process matures the malt slowly and uniformly, thus transforming every particle of nutriment in the barley into perfect food substances.

To these are added the invigorating properties of the choicest hops, by the Pabst brewing process, which insures absolute purity.

Pabst Blue Ribbon The Beer of Quality

Your system requires a liquid. Why not use one that is both food and drink—Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer. The special value of Pabst Blue Ribbon at meals is that it encourages the fluids of the stomach to readiest action—thus aiding you to get the fullest nourishment from your food.
